

WILLIAM L. ADAMS CENTER FOR WRITING

The WILLIAM L. ADAMS CENTER FOR WRITING assists TCU students, faculty, and staff with writing projects. Staffed by both professional and peer writing consultants, the center offers one-on-one assistance and instruction. The Center for Writing is a supportive place where you can talk openly and confidentially about your writing with someone who is knowledgeable but nonjudgmental.

projects, including traditional academic essays, résumés, speeches, creative writings, and new media writing projects.

Visit wrt.tcu.edu to make an appointment, for instructions on how to use our online writing lab (OWL), and for helpful writing resources.

Location & Hours

Reed Hall 419
Monday-Friday
8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Consults may focus on a specific piece of writing or on selected writing skills (e.g., grammar, documentation, or rhetorical issues). Consultants can assist you with a wide range of

Reed Hall 419
wrt.tcu.edu

We can help by...

- ✓ discussing new assignments with you, helping you to clarify and organize your ideas.
- ✓ reading a draft of what you have written and offering suggestions for revision.

- ✓ assisting you with expanding and developing your ideas.
- ✓ offering assistance with style and usage.
- ✓ answering questions about documentation of sources.
- ✓ teaching you new strategies for writing and increased confidence in yourself as a writer.

We are unable to...

- ✓ edit or proofread what you have written.
- ✓ read multiple assignments or extremely long assignments in a single conference.
- ✓ guarantee a particular grade or even suggest what grade you are likely to receive.
- ✓ assist you with take-home exams or final portfolios.

PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Cheryl Slocumb
Director

Cynthia Shearer
Associate Director

Sidney Thompson
Writing Consultant

Lindsay Dunn
Writing Consultant

WILLIAM L. ADAMS
CENTER FOR WRITING

Email: writingctr@tcu.edu
Phone: 817.257.7221

